Read about Indigenous culture and urban planning in Africa on The Conversation

University Communications
November 2022

Each month, faculty members and researchers from across the University share their expertise on The Conversation, an independent, not-for-profit news source committed to communicating the work of scholars. The Conversation makes all of its articles available at no charge to any news organization that wants to republish them. In addition, The Associated Press distributes The Conversation articles to newsrooms across the United States.

To recognize University of Arizona scholars who are contributing to The Conversation's goal of informing public debate "with knowledge-based journalism that is responsible, ethical and supported by evidence," the Office of University Communications regularly posts links to the articles that have been published on The Conversation.

Here are the articles published on The Conversation in November:

Nov. 7, 2022
Curious Kids: What makes someone Indigenous?[1]
Geographic, cultural and political identity are all part of being Indigenous.

Torivio Fodder [2]
Indigenous Governance Program Manager, Udall Center for Studies in Public Policy

Nov. 14, 2022
Ghana's informal residents show how social innovation can solve urban challenges[3]
Ghanaian urban and development planners need to move away from looking up to examples of innovations from the global north.

Seth Asare Okyere [4]
Visiting Assistant Professor, School of Landscape Architecture and Planning

Nov. 22, 2022
Ghana digitised its address system: its failure offers lessons to other African countries creating smart cities[5]
Ghanaians aren't using the new "smart" street address system, which was intended to improve service delivery.

Seth Asare Okyere [4]
Visiting Assistant Professor, School of Landscape Architecture and Planning

Read previous articles published on The Conversation:

- October 2022 [6]
- September 2022 [7]
- August 2022 [8]
- July 2022 [9]
- June 2022 [10]
- April 2022 [12]
- March 2022 [13]
- February 2022 [14]
- January 2022 [15]
- December 2021 [16]

Interested in submitting an article? Go to the sign up [17] link on The Conversation website to create a username and password. Do a keyword search to see what has been written on the topic you have in mind. Fill out the online pitch form [18]. (Scholars who would like to talk through an idea before submitting a pitch can send an email to conversation@arizona.edu [19].)

Source URL: https://uaatwork.arizona.edu/lqp/read-about-indigenous-culture-and-urban-planning-africa-conversation

Links