

There's still time to submit your WFH haiku

University Communications
May 2020

Faculty and staff members who would like to flex their creative muscles by writing a haiku about working from home have until Friday to submit their masterpieces to Lo Que Pasa.

Poems should be about working from home, Zooming or home schooling, and should be in the standard haiku format of three lines, with the first and third lines having five syllables and the second line having seven.

Submissions should be emailed to Pila Martinez at pila@arizona.edu ^[1] by 5 p.m. Friday. Please include your full name and title and the name of your department/office/unit.

Readers are welcome to submit as many haiku poems as they would like. The best will be featured in the June 10 issue of Lo Que Pasa.
