

Video: Office of Student Financial Aid Dares to Care

University Communications
February 2009

For this year's UA Cares campaign, the Office of Student Financial Aid quite literally dared to care. The office raised more than $500 in the annual employee giving campaign “and had some fun in the process” through its innovative Dare Jars challenge. Employees contributed money to jars labeled with different dares for their co-workers. The three that raised the most money “dares to wear a wedding dress to work, perform an NFL-style pompom dance and sing while playing the guitar” were performed last Wednesday in the Administration building. See how the OSFA employees pulled them off in this video ^[1].
