New Producers to Cover Mental Health and Scientific/Medical Advances Join Arizona Public Media

Date::
March 2, 2020

Arizona Public Media announced this week that two new producers will be joining the station’s signature program, Arizona Illustrated.

Cáit NiSiómón, a respected local producer/videographer/editor and artist will take over the AZPM Mental Health Reporting Desk, producing stories in the genre of health/mental health. Over the past few years, Ms. NiSiómón has produced videos for Southwest Folklife Alliance, Museum of Contemporary Art (MOCA), and The Arts Foundation for Tucson and Southern Arizona among others. She earned a BFA in Film, Video and New Media from the School of Fine Art: Painting and Sculpture at Galway/ Mayo Institute of Technology, Galway, Ireland. Ms. NiSiómón will start on March 2.

The AZPM Mental Health Reporting Desk was established in 2011. With the support of The David and Lura Lovell Foundation, AZPM has created a nationally unique model in mental-health reporting, raising awareness and reducing stigma about mental illness. In the years since its inception, AZPM has carved out a critical and unique niche within PBS and NPR, and the deeply authentic, personal, and revealing work has been transformative for viewers and listeners. AZPM’s mental health coverage has directly served the people of Arizona by creating personal and accessible stories that reveal mental health challenges and disparities within often-ignored populations, such as Native American, African American, Latinx, LGBTQI+, youth, rural, veteran, and law enforcement communities. The segments and stories are often used by treatment centers, educators, training programs, and collaborations to explain the realities of mental illness and the potential for recovery.

Bryan Nelson will produce stories focusing on advances and discoveries in science, technology, medicine, and more in Southern Arizona. This is a new position and beat at AZPM. For more than a decade, Mr. Nelson has worked as a freelance journalist, writer, and recently as a filmmaker for various online magazines and entities including Mother Nature Network, Hakai Magazine, NW Documentary, National Optical Astronomy Observatory (NOAO), Intercultural Center for the Study of Deserts and Oceans (CEDO), and Kitt Peak National Observatory. He has experience in education outreach with The Fund for Public Interest and more recently Biosphere 2. Mr. Nelson earned an MA Philosophy (Certificate: Cognitive Science) from the University of Houston and a BA in Philosophy and in Anthropology from S.U.N.Y. at Oswego in Oswego, New York. Mr. Nelson will start on April 6.

Through stunning photography and powerful storytelling, Arizona Illustrated introduces viewers to the people that make Arizona such a unique and vibrant place to live. Hosted by Tom McNamara, Arizona Illustrated is a flagship program of Arizona Public Media and one of PBS 6’s most well-known local programs. Covering a wide variety of topics including history, science and nature, the arts, and local public affairs, each half-hour episode of Arizona Illustrated... is presented in a newsmagazine format and includes mini-documentaries that are shot on location throughout southern Arizona and the region.

Arizona Illustrated has been showcasing the stories that make southern Arizona unique for more than three decades. New episodes air every Sunday at 6:30 p.m. with encores the following Saturday at 6:30 p.m. and at various times throughout the week.
