

OERizona: Open Practices, Open People

Date::

September 23, 2019

Are you already using open educational resources and practices in your classroom, or would you like to but don't know where to get started? Come meet like-minded colleagues while learning more about how to facilitate open education at your institution. The open education community in Arizona has come together to create an opportunity for teachers, administrators, librarians and others to learn more about open educational resources (OER) and open educational practices and pedagogies (OEP).

Join us on Tuesday, Oct. 29, at Glendale Community College in Glendale, Arizona, for OERizona ^[1], a free, day-long workshop the day before the 2019 Open Education Conference ^[2] (Oct. 30 – Nov. 1) where participants can engage in hands-on activities with open education. From 9:30am–4:00pm, practitioners from around Arizona, the U.S., and beyond can come together to make meaningful change in their open education community. Those unable to travel to Glendale, Arizona, can attend as virtual participants, also for free.

OERizona welcomes #OpenEd19 attendees and others with any level of open education experience – from curious newcomers to practiced champions. Educators, librarians, instructional designers, educational technologists and people in other roles supporting teaching and learning are encouraged to attend this day of active exploration and collaboration.
