You're invited: UCAP Hosts Town Hall Discussions

To:
All interested members of the UA community

Names and titles:
Division of Human Resources - [1] University Career Architecture Project (UCAP)

Date:
October 17, 2017

The University Career Architecture Project (UCAP) is hosting a series of town halls in order to engage with employees regarding this exciting, two-year project. These discussions are an excellent opportunity to participate in direct communication with members of the UCAP project team and advisory council, learn about how the project will benefit our community, and ask questions.

All interested members of the UA community are invited to attend these four sessions being held at: UA South [2], UA Phoenix [3], UAHS Tucson [4], and Tucson Main Campus [5]. The town hall on November 2 will be live streamed from the Fred Fox School of Music. [6]

UCAP will evolve our classified staff and appointed professional employment categories into contemporary, market-based job functions and families. By enabling informed decisions, creating a shared language across the University, and outlining career possibilities, UCAP will revolutionize the way we manage professional growth and compensation.
