Arizona Public Media is excited to team with StoryCorps on the One Small Step project to record meaningful, respectful conversations between people who hold different political beliefs.

We are seeking participants of all backgrounds and beliefs to join us. The point of these conversations is not to debate policy, change minds, or “talk politics.” The project’s goal is for folks to share personal stories that shaped their beliefs in the hope that they will simply learn about their differences – and their similarities.

For more information and to apply visit: azpm.org/onesmallstep